Volume XXXVI, Number 40.

LOUISA, LAWRENCE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, JUNE 10, 1921.

M. F. CONLEY and E. K. SPENCER, Prop.

TROOPS ORDERED
FROM TUG RIVER
MINE WAR ZONEKENTUCKY COMPANIES WITH-DRAWN BECAUSE OF NO
STATE FUNDS TO SUP-PORT THEM.

The Lawrence, Rowan and Laurel county troops of cavalry, serving in the strike district of the coal mining section of Pike and Mingo counties, Tug river, were ordered out last Friday and last night in getting home. The Lawrence county troops arrived on No. 3 at 1:45 Saturday morning.

The reason given out from Frankfort is that the State has no more funds available for keeping these soldiers in the field.

Gov. Morrow has authorized the state police of West Virginia to cross into Kentucky and make arrests in cases connected with the strike.

No intimation has yet been made as to whether or not federal soldiers will be sent there. The necessity for such action is just as great as ever. It will be done, no doubt, after further outbreaks, which are constantly imminent.

JOHNSON IS OUT OF THE RUNNINGELLIOTT COUNTY MAN RETIRES
FROM LEGISLATIVE RACE IN FAVOR OF SHANNON.

Mr. W. W. Johnson, of Elliott county, was here Tuesday and announced his withdrawal from the race for Representative in the Legislature from this district. He was a candidate for the Democratic nomination but is retiring in favor of Hon. E. E. Shannon, of Lawrence, the present Representative.

Mr. Johnson says he believes the counties of Elliott and Lawrence should rotate every four years, giving two successive terms to each county, for the reason that a member of the Legislature can accomplish a great deal more during a second term than he can the first term. Also, the fact that Mr. Shannon was kept away from his duties at the last session most of the time by influenza is a factor that entered into the plea of the friends who are urging his re-election. There is some work that he had planned before and was prevented by illness from doing.

Mr. Johnson reached the decision after consulting the Democrats of Elliott in regard to the two-term plan. They are heartily in favor of it and are for Mr. Shannon this time.

As Elliott gave a thousand Democratic majority last year, in the face of the general Republican landslide it is hardly probable that Mr. Shannon will have any opposition in November.

tucky. Dies Suddenly

Washington, June 7.—Alvin Tobias Hert, of Louisville, Republican national committeeman from Kentucky, who was at one time slated to be President Harding's secretary of the navy, dropped dead in his room at the New Willard hotel at 4130 this afternoon.

He was lying on his bed talking politics and matters relating to tomorrow's meeting of the Republican national committee when he died. A gasp was the first warning to those with him, who included E. T. Frank, former postmaster of Owensboro, Ky., Matt Chilton, of Louisville, who made the trip here with him, and two Kentucky congressmen, J. W. Langley and J. M. Robinson.

"As he gasped he rolled over on the bed," said Mr. Chilton. "We rushed to his assistance. There was another gasp and then he was gone."

The deceased was born in Owensboro, Indiana, April 8, 1865. Since 1904 he has been president of the American Crossfolding company, with its 15 plants scattered over the country. But later developments resulted in the arrest of Winnie Maynard, Boyd Finley and Emory Finley on Tuesday of this week after warrants for murder had been issued against these three men.

The men were brought to Wayne Tuesday night by Deputy Sheriff Fred Perry. They waited preliminary hearing before a justice to appear at the August term of circuit court.—Wayne Co. News.

LITERARY MEETING
AT M. E. CHURCH

On Friday evening of this week there will be a meeting at the Methodist church to which all the citizens of Louisa are invited. This meeting is being held for the purpose of developing a spirit of education and there will be a list of one hundred and thirteen questions propounded. A record of the number answered will be kept and those not answered will be carried over to the next meeting. We hope to meet at the different churches and no questions will be permitted that would create theological discussion. The questions will always be literary and scientific and while the meeting must not be irreverent it will not in the strict sense be a religious gathering.

The object of the gathering is to stimulate the young to higher aspirations and to help the older ones to add to their fund of knowledge. We expect to encourage a spirit of freedom and all formality will be eliminated except what will be necessary to give tone and order to the meeting. We hope that this gathering will be the beginning of a public school for all grades and ages and special attention will be given to explanations of intricate points. Unnecessary controversy will be discouraged. We expect to be one in the pursuit of knowledge and will seek to help each other in every way possible.

If this meets public favor we will strive to make it pay in the highest sense. All are urged to come young and old. Wisdom is more to be desired than gold, yet that much fine gold.

ANOTHER TRAGEDY
NEAR THE LAWRENCE
AND ELLIOTT LINEGIRL AND THREE MEN KILLED
IN A FIGHT LAST SUNDAY
IN ELLIOTT COUNTY.

On Wallowhole creek in Elliott county, last Sunday James Barker shot and instantly killed Miss Mary Sparks, age 14. Also, he is said to have shot Dan Sparks, a brother of Mary. In the neck, and sent a bullet into one of Hughes Sparks' arms. During the fracas Wesley Sparks, Sr., had his skull fractured by a blow from a club and it is reported that he has died. It is said this blow was struck by Wesley Sparks, Jr., a nephew and brother-in-law of the old man. The younger man is known as Little Wes. He was out in five places during the fight and his death is reported.

Barker escaped and has not been arrested. He is a son of Floyd Barker, who lives near the line between Lawrence and Elliott.

Moonslime liquor was the cause of the trouble. Several months ago Dan Sparks helped to cut up a still said to belong to Barker and Little Wes. Also, he was a witness against them. On last Sunday morning it is said these two young men threw rocks at the Sparks family as they were about to enter the church house. And when the services were over they started the trouble again. Mary stepped in between Barker and her brother, hoping to prevent the shooting, but Barker promptly shot her through the heart. The fight then became general, with results as above stated.

This is the second tragedy on Wallowhole creek lately. Throughout that locality there is said to be a great deal of moonshining.

Later—A later report says Dan Sparks has died from the wound in his throat. Dan became religious a few months ago and reported Barker and Little Wes for moonshining. He is said to have been associated with them previously in the moonshining business. He made indictments in circuit court in Elliott county, but it is said the men have never been arrested.

City Council Gets No

Bids on Additional Paving

The City Council met in regular session last Tuesday night. No bids were received on the additional street paving advertised for the 7th, except the piece of brick paving on Lock avenue between the Stewart and Casto residence property, a distance of one square, 208 feet. This contract was awarded to the property owners for one dollar. Several other sections of streets were advertised, including the Lick creek connection, but there were no bids.

Austin Smith resigned as city engineer. Mr. Palmer and Mr. Lincoln are now employed to finish up the engineering on the street paving job.

The failure of officers to properly enforce the laws was discussed in a very pointed manner. The case of three men caught gambling last Sunday was the chief subject. The council refused to receive some money paid to the Treasurer for this offense on the ground that it was irregular. It seems that last Sunday a small boy asked the marshal and a policeman if they wanted to catch some fellows gambling. They said yes and the boy directed them to a place under the river bank. They found three men playing, with about eight dollars on the board. They left the money and started to run, but were halted. One man gave the marshal a check for $20 which he said was not good, but he would make it good next day. Another promised to pay $20 the following day. The third one went his way without any arrangement. The marshal says he accepted the above as bond and told the men to appear in police court the next morning. They did not appear, but it is said a fine of $20 each was entered. The penalty is $20 to $100 for each offense. The city attorney was not present in court and refused to accept the attorney's per cent of the money. It is reported the men claim to have been promised that there would be no publicity about the matter.

Serious Cutting Affray

Near Town of Blaine

On last Sunday, near Blaine, Frank Polley cut Dewey McKinney and McKinney's condition is reported to be serious. The dangerous wound is in his right side.

It seems that this is a renewal of trouble that started a week before. McKinney is considerably larger than Polley and the report says he gave Polley quite a severe beating. Polley drew a knife and cut him three times.

McKinney lives near Webbville and carries the mail from Webbville to Blaine. Polley is a son of Ned Polley of Cherokee. He has been driving a hack between Blaine and Webbville. The trouble arose over a passenger or passengers carried between those points.

On Friday and Saturday nights of this week "The Miracles Man" is to be shown. We notice in a list of great productions that this play heads the list of plays as to the amount of money taken in.

CIRCUIT COURT

IN SESSION HERE

Circuit court opened here Monday for the June term, with Judge Clesco and Mr. Vaughn on the job. The grand jury was impaneled and the Judge gave them the strongest possible instructions, emphasizing liquor violations, which seem to be increasing.

The court house was occupied in the afternoon by candidates for Circuit Judge, Commonwealth's Attorney and County Judge, six of whom made speeches.

On Wednesday a man was fined $60 and 45 days in jail for giving a drink of liquor to another man. $10 a quart for the stuff, $60 in cash, and 45 days time makes "treating" so expensive that hospitality of that kind will go out of style.

The case against Frank Bradley is now on trial. Albert Damron's case, for cutting Lawrence Dixon, is set for Friday of this week.

Grand Jury:—John Hughes, foreman, Charles Roberts, M. W. Chambers, R. D. Hinkle, Harry Bailey, Smith Hicks, John Hughes, Laud Holt, Linzy Sammons, T. E. Branham, A. W. Hudson, Joe Preston, Tom Arrington.

Miss Davidson in her petition that Purcell agreed to marry her July 21, 1914, and that because of his wealth and social position she was forced to accept the same.

Hard Roads Must be

Kept up and Protected from Damage

General Pershing has appointed the roads committee in Congress to advocate a system of maintenance on which federal money is now expended. He saw roads in Europe, Caesar, Napoleon and other rulers and kept in good condition this day by protection and care. On every section of roads a man (usually an American) breaks making repairs of the breaks that make their progress.

President Harding insists that similar patrol system be organized by the United States on all roads where federal money is spent. It is about about this.

There is no such thing as a free road. No material has been found that will stand up under all kinds of traffic. All kinds of roads need constant care, and the cost against damage by careless drivers.

Nearly all States having laws have made laws to protect the roads. Narrow wagon roads, built in Ohio, New York, States. The weight of loads trucks with wide tires in the heavily loaded trucks on the roads by officers expect that they are laid out on the legal limit, and if found the excess is dumped on the side. Horses and so on. The age are not permitted on roads. In West Virginia there is a law fixing a fine for every road with any sort of vehicle.

The laws are the result of experience and necessity. The greatest damage was done by people who pay no attention to the keeping up of the roads.

Protecting the roads. Louisa has enacted an ordinance to protect her new streets from any damage, fixing a fine for every road with any sort of vehicle.

TUSCOLA

The ground is very dry and oats and madoes will be very short unless there is considerable rain in the near future.

Some of our citizens will attend court at Louisa this week.

Rev. James Harvey preached at Baker Saturday night and Sunday morning to large and appreciative congregations. His Sunday morning discourse was how to get into the kingdom of God. It was very elaborate and above criticism. He showed the inconsistencies of the doctrine of second and third grace.

The meeting at Olivette closed Wednesday night. It was a great meeting and much good was accomplished.

One night during the meeting some boys threw stones through Dennis Coffee's window. Warrants were issued but as far as we know parties haven't been arrested. There was some shooting at random on the public high way one night during the meeting.

The citizens here are ready to suppress crime in all its forms and to assist officers in bringing the guilty to justice.

If citizens will unite in suppressing crime instead of winking at it or upholding it, it will soon cease and our country will grow safer and better.

They never made a cigarette like this in my day—

The Camel idea wasn't born then. It was the exclusive expert Camel blend that revolutionized cigarette smoking.

That Camel blend of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos hits just the right spot. It gives Camels such mellow mildness and fragrance!

The first time I smoked Camels I knew they were made for me. I knew they were the smoothest, finest cigarette in the world, at any price.

Nobody can tell me anything different.

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Theodore's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficacy of Theodore's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Theodore's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Beware of imitations or substitutes. Always Ask for Theodore's.

When A Man Marries

At a recent national conference of savings bank officials it was said that married men save more than single men—and more savings accounts are opened in June than in any other month.

So June, the month of brides—and sweet girl graduates and eager boys with the light of the world's battles in their eyes—is also the month of Savings Accounts.

But why limit this advantage to married folks? Everyone needs a savings account and now is the best time to start one.

And here is a good place—where good service and security of funds make our interest rate doubly attractive.

DEAF AND BLIND MAN RIDES FREIGHT TRAIN WITHOUT ACCIDENT

Billie Bows, a man who is deaf dumb and blind, escaped from the Wayne county infirmary on Tuesday night, walked to Wayne, a distance of three miles, boarded a freight train, sat down between the bumpers and by 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, climbed off in Williamson.

Bowe did not wander around Williamson long until he was taken into custody by Williamson authorities who were unable to determine where the unfortunate man was from or what his mission was. He was later identified by a Norfolk & Western conductor who recognized Bows as a man he had seen at the county farm station. Bows returned on train No. 27 on Friday.

On reaching the infirmary he expressed his pleasure of being back home by laughing and throwing his hands in the air. He shook hands with the superintendent of the infirmary, Elba Davis, and manifest, in his way, a genuine delight in arriving home safely.

The unfortunate man is given a room to himself in the infirmary building and because of his habit of wandering away between dusk and dawn he has room door is fastened with a latch located above the door. But on the night of his latest escape he found the latch. It is not known at exactly what hour in the night he left, but it was shortly after daybreak that two boys saw him climb on a freight train at Wayne which was stopped for water at the local tank. Bows sat down between the bumpers according to the boys, and when the train began to move he waived his hand in the same way that a normal person would bid farewell to friends when leaving on a trip. The boys did not know the man was deaf dumb and blind at the time but they explained that he handled himself awkwardly and walked with a cane.

Bowe finds his way by feeling with his cane. And it is supposed that he followed the railroad track all the way from the county farm to Wayne until he ran into the train waiting here for water and then climbed on. It will be recalled by readers of Wayne County News that he escaped once before on the night of April 1 and was found at the Sansom bridge near Wayne by county clerk Ezekiah Adkins, who brought him to the court house until he could be returned to the infirmary.

Bowe's home was formerly at Forburg on the Big Sandy side of the county, between Saltpeter and Ft. Gay. He can neither see, hear nor talk the least bit. He can do odd jobs when given a hammer and nails, but his most remarkable feat has been the trip to Williamson by freight train without accident.—Wayne County News.

THE FARMER'S COLUMN
G. C. BAKER, County Agent.

This is the time when we should post ourselves how to handle the striped cucumber beetle which causes so much damage to cucumber plants, watermelons, squashes, etc. These beetles hibernates over in the soil, emerge in the spring, after a few days they pair and the female deposits her eggs in the crevices of the soil, each laying about 100 eggs. They hatch in about 3 days and the larva bore into the roots of the plant from which it emerges in about ten days.

REMEDY—Arsenate of Lead Powder mixed in proportions of 3 pounds to 50 gallons of water and thoroughly sprayed on the plants will handle them if not too numerous, then we must resort to netting the young plants. Apply as soon as the plants come up and every week for four weeks afterwards.

If Arsenate of Lead paste is used use only 1-2 pounds of it to 50 gallons of water or the powder may be dusted on the plants while the dew is on at the rate of 3 pounds per acre.

Cabbages Worm.
Use same as for cucumber beetle, 3 pounds of Arsenate Lead powder to 50 gallons of water except to which add 1 gallon of molasses and spray every ten days. Paris Green may be used for cucumber beetle, dusted on while dew is on, if mixed with finely sifted plaster, sand or other matter.

Memorial Day.

Each recurring May brings around to us Memorial Day until our last great war the memory of the dark days of the sixties was so dimmed that Memorial Day to most of us meant little more than a ceremony. But now, with the great war just behind us and with the memory of those brave clean boys who faced life with so much courage and death equally so, this past Memorial Day meant to most of us just what it has always meant to the veterans of our Civil War.

There is a crumb of comfort for some that they can strew flowers on the graves of their loved ones, but many, many others do not have this comfort for most of our brave boys are resting where they fell, "somewhere in France." To these we can only say "that the grave contains nothing they really loved. The spirit they loved so much lives on just as it did before and in God's good time when they are permitted to throw off their material existence and live in a spiritual world they will be reunited in an existence happier than our material senses can possibly anticipate. When we can view death as merely an episode in a constantly improving life, it will lose much of its sting.

All day the busy feet have tired the garden paths; all day the merry voice has echoed through the rooms; but now, when twilight is deepening into night, and the lamps of heaven are being lighted, the noisy feet grow still, the childish voice is hushed to the low-breathing of the evening prayer, and as the brown head sinks wearily to rest upon its pillow the red lips murmur faintly, "So tired."

Ah, tired one, oftentimes thy feet will falter and grow weary ere they reach the prime of manhood; and to thee will come hours when not as now the innocent sleep of childhood will bring thee rest.

Often from other lips than childhood once has escaped a sigh, the burden of which has been, "So tired!" Eagerly we toll for an independence which some day in the far-off future is to bring us rest; but as night after night we lay our weary heads upon our pillows, we are still looking forward, still unsatisfied, and thus it will ever be with us till the Master calls. Sometimes ambition is the guiding star spurring us onward to the temple of fame. But this path is a thorny one; the foot-steps falter; the brain grows dizzy; and from the heart goes forth the cry, "So tired!" Yet, oftentimes a heavy valley stretches out before us, and now, when twilight is deepening into night, and the lamps of heaven are being lighted, the noisy feet grow still, the childish voice is hushed to the low-breathing of the evening prayer, and as the brown head sinks wearily to rest upon its pillow the red lips murmur faintly, "So tired."

all weary. And yet we would not fold our hands in idleness, because perchance, we may sometimes grow "faint with the burden and heat of the day." To us has been given a glorious privilege to press onward in the battle of life, and if our chosen path be that of truth and right the assurance of well-doing will be our sweet reward when, by-and-by, we shall partake of that joy and peace of which the blessed never tire.

Not until recent years have the "dads" of this country had one fraction of praise really coming to them. The "mothers" have always had more or less praise. Of course when it comes to down right appreciation, they'll probably never get their full quota, but they can't deny that there has been a lot of high sounding things said about them. They deserved them all, too, God bless them, and a whole lot more.

But now, you know, our "dads" deserve a lot more than they ever really get. Our fathers are, as a rule, rather quiet. They don't say much about their duty to their family or about their hopes. Just because they are so quiet we often fail to appreciate the load they are carrying. Many a father sacrifices too much and gives up his life too fast for the comfort of his family.

Men, as a rule, seek to hide all sign of sentiment or emotion and many sons do not know of their father's pride or hopes. Fathers have the same yearning pride as Mother's only they cannot express it by the same ministries.

Get a little closer to your dad now and girls. He needs your companionship and understanding.

When we hear praise bestowed on other people we call it flattery.

POULTRY FOR EAGLE INVESTMENT

Available in Buy Machine Used
with Great Success in Immediate Neighborhood.

DETERMINE SIZE BY NEEDS

Call at Incubator House
Should Be Provided if Equipment is Extensive—Important to Keep Air Fresh.

Advised by the United States Department of Agriculture.

After the poultryman has made up his mind to buy an incubator, he is confronted with the question of makes and sizes. As a general rule, a cheap incubator is a poor investment, requiring more attention than a good one and requiring one quicker hesitates being less reliable. The value of the machine is small compared with that of the chickens it produces during the normal life of an incubator. It is poor economy, therefore, to buy a machine which is not reliable. Whenever possible it is well to select the kind of incubator that will give satisfaction in your neighborhood, so that you may get the benefit of the experience of other operators in the neighborhood.

Varies With Needs.

The best size of incubator to buy
varies with numerous circumstances, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.
Just as much time is required to incubate a 60 as for a 300-egg machine; it is equally advisable to get one of at least 150-egg capacity. Special conditions, though, often exist
which make smaller machines valuable.

A small machine is often used in connection with a larger one, all eggs being placed in the large machine after the first or second hatch. Many poultrymen believe that it pays to have an incubator large enough to hatch the bulk of their stock in two or three hatches,
so that much time is saved in tending the incubators and brooders. In addition the chickens are more uniform in size than those hatched when the hatching period extends over a long time.

A fair estimate for a poultry farm is an incubator of one-egg capacity per chicken provided that about one-half of the stock is to be renewed yearly and the outside hatching is carried on. The larger machines cost less in proportion than the smaller ones.

Good Results in Cellars.

Incubators are operated in a great variety of places with success. Where a few small machines are used they are usually located in a room or corner of the house. A special cellar or incubator house should be provided if the incubator equipment is extensive or if mammoth machines are

It is important to have a well-ventilated room not subject to wide variations in temperature. If built above ground the walls should be double and the entire building well insulated.

Incubators in hatching are secured
by means of cellars and incubators entirely above ground level, but the latter is more commonly used. Incubators may be operated in buildings with single walls, especially in regions
where there is a mild climate, but a well-insulated room is preferable.

A cellar or room or cellar should be large enough to allow the attendant to move around the machines comfortably. Any incubator cellars are equipped with some system of ventilation leading to the outdoors. This is always necessary, however. The purpose is to keep the air in the cellar fresh. The fresh air is drawn in through a good ventilation without the aid of the same time keep the air in the cellars from coming from the outside.

Lord Rensley's Bride

By FREDERICK CLARKE

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union)

All London society was whispering
and questioning, for Lord Rensley was on his way home to England after an absence of a year. He had shot tigers in India, had speared salmon in Alaska, and hunted grizzlies in the wilds of western Canada. And all the while Lady Rensley had kept open house at the Abbey. Now he was expected home; he would arrive in two weeks. Actually he arrived a week earlier and unexpectedly.

They had been married nearly three years before. Lady Rensley had been Miss Edith Kane of Cleveland, and her father was one of the 12 richest men in America. The marriage had been considered slightly fortune-telling, for the Rensley family dated back 500 years—though not the title,
and his lands were extensive, although unprofitable. Miss Kane's dowry would restore the old abbey and enable her husband and herself to announce their rightful place in the social hierarchy. And so Rensley had won the beauty of Cleveland.

He and his bride were face to face
in their apartments at the Everley hotel. The bride drew off her engagement ring meditatively and handed it to him and said, without a trace of passion:
"I shall wear my marriage ring, but not this. The bargain is an equal one, and I am satisfied. You will never have cause to be ashamed of me in the eyes of the world. Good night,
Lord Rensley."

"You mean," he asked, "that our marriage is to be one in name only?"
"Why, what else did you expect?"
she answered mockingly, though her lips were quivering. "You never loved me. You sought me for my fortune, as I you for your title." And so she turned away and they said no more.

In due course they sailed for England. Rensley Abbey was reconstructed and thrown open. The parties assembled there.

Then Rensley sailed for India to shoot tigers, and the parties continued.
They were as gay as ever, but different people came. There was Ritz, for instance, that Italian gentleman who had acquired a sinister reputation in several capitals of Europe, and was not diminishing in London. He brought his attendant crowd: flashy women
came and sporting men and lawless actors and actresses. And of the character of these people Lady Rensley knew nothing, for she never showed up. And she only knew that she liked Ritz and that he alone of all of them seemed to understand her situation and to have sympathy for her.

So she moved among them, innocently, the lonely mistress of the Abbey, while people shrugged their shoulders and smiled. And then they heard that Rensley was coming home.
Ritz, too, heard it, and he put his finger to his lips. In his way he liked this unapproachable American lady as much as he was capable of liking, and as constantly. They were alone for a few minutes in the conservatory. From the ballroom came the sound of music and the chatter of the guests.

He fell upon his knees and seized
her hand and pressed it to his lips. "I have ever loved you, you beauty with your secret sorrow. Leave him and come with me to Italy. You shall have my love all your days, and my fortune shall be at your disposal. You shall—"

"That was the moment when Rensley returned a week earlier than had been expected. He had sent word, but he had arrived before his own letter.
So he had strolled quietly in.

He saw the room brilliantly lighted, but, when he entered the hall, none
of the guests knew him.

Then Rensley entered the conservatory alone. And Lady Rensley, seeing him, drew back with a frightened
catch of the breath, and Ritz, knowing him, rose also in his feet and stood looking at him defiantly, with foiled arms.

"Pardon me for interrupting," said Lord Rensley. "Ransley? Yes? Pray, what is it you so urgently desire of Lady Rensley that you go down upon your knees to her?"

Since he did not answer, Rensley turned to his wife.

"My dear, is it in our power, or is it your desire to grant this gentleman
what he is asking?" he demanded.

"No," she flashed out in her bewilderment. "No!"

Rensley took Ritz by the arm.
"My dear fellow, you shall have your five hundred pounds," he said in a loud voice, which carried to those waiting outside. "But I wish you had asked me instead of my wife." He turned to the guests, "Gentlemen, my cars are at your disposal," he said.

Lady Rensley tapped her fingers
upon the table.
"I want to tell you one thing before we part," she said. "I have never given you reason to be ashamed of
me. I have kept my vow."

SOME SMILES

Spelling Her Day Dreams.

"Your new stenographer has a far-away look in her eyes."
"So she has," said Mr. Dinwiddle.
"I'll have to do something about it."
"What, for instance?"
"If she doesn't wake up in a day or two I'm going to tell her, kindly but firmly, that so far as I know her job
is not a stepping stone to matrimony
or the movies."

Practice Makes Perfect.

"What crime did you commit to be in here?" inquired the prison visitor.
"I guess it must have been because I attended too many weddings."
"I see! You stole the gifts or drank too much champagne?"
"No, it was just because I was always the bridegroom," answered the arch bigamist.

His Demonstration.

Smith—Well, Jones, I feel pretty proud of myself. I've kept three doctors away today.
Jones—How? Christian Science?
Smith—No, by apple.
Jones—How so?
Smith—Why, they say an apple a day keeps the doctor away and there's my third cure!

Relaxation.

"Do you believe the story about
George Washington and the cherry tree?"
"I hadn't thought about it," replied Senator Sorghum, "but I'm willing to get into the argument if it'll help to take my mind off the league questions."

A Fast Night Life.

"Why did your new bird man quit?"
"He wanted to try city life," said
Mr. Colburn.
"Where did he go?"
"Over to Chicagoville. That town has two movie palaces and a dance hall
now. It's just about the metropolis of this country."

THE STYLE.

Mother: Haavanna daughter, your skirts should at least reach your shoe tops.
Daughter: Well mother they are not making the shoes that high.

The Impeccable Lover.

I fear that mercenary is
The lovely girl I court,
For though I've loved that maiden long,
She shines me 'cause I'm short.

Applause.

"You don't attach much importance to the applause an orator receives."
"Not much," admitted Senator Sorghum. "There is bound to be applause. You can't expect an audience to sit still all evening and do absolutely nothing."

Two Hunters.

Hunter: That Mr. Hunter was very inquisitive. He asked me the amount of my fortune!
New Hunter: The impertinent fellow! And what did you tell him it was?

Not Answering.

Sandy was fishing, and Donald, who was passing, asked: "How are the fish today, Sandy?"
"I dinna ken," answered Sandy. "I dropped them a line, but so far I've nae reply."—T.H.B.

An Imagist.

First Author: My mother always thought I would be a remarkable man.
Second Author: No wonder you have so much imagination. You inherited it—Judge.

Organized to Do It.

Ballou: What is the use of attempting a woman has ever made to keep a secret?
Benjamin: Oh, I heard once, they formed a secret society somewhere for the swapping of secrets.

Too Difficult for Him.

"Suppose Job had had some of our modern afflictions."
"Yes, and suppose Solomon had to give judgment as umpire in a baseball game."

A Safe Bet.

"I guess they'll marry all right. She is his first love."
"That doesn't make it sure."
"Well, he is her last chance."

Entertaining.

"What did you do today?"
"Nothing. I stayed at home."
